

Peer Review

Ayoub has made meaningful contributions to the project. He has helped in completing every group task that we have thus far submitted. He has also remained active on our group Discord and made himself available for communication about the tasks and has attended every group meeting both inside and outside of class times. Ayoub has also achieved a good standard of work on tasks 2.4, 2.5 and 3.4 with his model diagrams and prototype. He has also met the deadlines except for during the weeklong break which we as a group didn't work on the project as much as we probably should have.

Deacon has been important in remaining organised and has been a big contributor to the project inside and outside of class time. He set up the OneDrive which we have been using to archive documents and keeps a hold of our physical documents. Deacon has contributed with every group task in this unit and is always apart of group discussions in the Thursday classes. Similarly to Ayoub, Deacon has made himself available on the group Discord server for example on the Monday during the weeklong break where Ayoub, Deacon and I worked on tasks 2.3, 2.4 and 2.5. He has also met the group deadlines and has produced good quality work such as his work on the persona task 2.3.

Thieu hasn't quite had an opportunity to contribute to the project as much as Ayoub and Deacon have. He seems to not talk so much during the Thursday classes without prompting. Us as a group could probably do more to encourage him during these times by asking for his opinions and thoughts on things more so than we currently do. He was also unable to attend our Discord sessions due to his shifts at work which obviously isn't his fault and just requires us as a group to schedule these remote sessions at times that suit all members of the group. On the plus side the group has never had to wait on Thieu to complete a task and he has attended all of the Thursday classes.

Group Work Strategies

The group's work during the Thursday classes has been fairly efficient and has been where most of the group's productivity has been. In comparison, our work sessions on Discord are not as productive and takes longer than the 2 hours for the Thursday classes. Unfortunately our group members' schedules don't facilitate face-to-face meetings outside of the Thursday classes so the Discord sessions are a necessary compromise but in future group projects I will try to communicate the importance of face-to-face work with my group.

A way for our group to be more productive during the interim between Thursday classes would be to make better use of our Trello board by giving individual group members responsibility over a certain task as opposed to our current workflow where we all work on each task together. However, this might not be required right now since our group has managed to stay fairly on top of the tasks apart from during the weeklong break where we only had one work session on Discord leaving us to finish off tasks 2.3, 2.4 and 2.5 on the Thursday before they were due.
